

Emotional Shock Absorber... New Energy: like that name?

One of the technical things a human can apply to their own life, to their emotional life, is the shock absorber.

The shock absorber reduces the load on every part of the vehicle, your foot, on your head... wherever you are utilizing it... and if used properly, your emotional and physical self.

The bombardment of humanity with negative emotions is continuous. There is no shield, there is no distance, there is no bunker that can protect you... but you can use the shock absorber...

An emotion only wreaks havoc when it's resisted.

Even LOVE resisted, will wreak havoc in your system.

The reason positivity, or avoiding negativity kills so many people, because the non-acceptance, the resistance to what is, is a serious attack on your innards.

The new Source Energy I am working on and testing is a Shock Absorber... it takes the resistance away, and thus reduces the load on your body... physical, and emotional.

Can you create it yourself? Unless you are more skillful in allowing than most, I don't suggest you go on the Do it Yourself route...

I haven't been able to just let go: the transmitted emotions, and in my case, the physical attacks are too painful, too persistent, too solid.

But the new energy, still in its infancy, seems to be doing the letting go FOR ME, although I have had to download it two-three times at a clip, the second and third downloads separated from each other only a second or two, have been removing the near unbearable tension created by the resistance.

Allowing is not natural. Resistance is.

Allowing is learned behavior.

I have had four cats in my lifetime. Two of them never learned to allow... Two others that were with me from kitten age did.

The difference between the cats was that the ones I nurtured from kitten age learned to trust me. The others didn't.

You need to have learned to trust a person to allow them to "touch" you.

If you have learned that pain is bad, that negative emotions are not allowed, either through others' reaction to it, or through extreme pain, then letting go, allowing, is not easy, or not possible for you.

Most people I know are like that. Unable to let go, unable to allow. I am like you. If a doctor wants the knee reflex from me, they need to distract me... otherwise I can't let my leg swing out... It's not conscious, it's automatic. I automatically res

But with automatic behavior like that you are like a wine glass... anything can shatter you, or paralyze you... which one is worse? Both are horrible.

The Shock Absorber method is brilliant because of its simplicity, and because it doesn't require you to be different than you are. If you are like me: you need it.

Update: The Emotional Shock Absorber is ready and it's effective medicine for the bad emotions the world spews at you.

I have released, finally, the Emotional Shock Absorber. You can get it for a song...

I have even included the webinar replay from September 5, when I first tested it and found it working. Worth watching.

A good question from a student:

It seems the shock absorber works quickly I feel better already!!! Do these dark side transmissions affect my vibration? Thank you

My answer: they don't. they effect how you feel... of course on the long run they may lower your vibration... if you believe that they are yours... and judging from my experience, the mind always finds a justification why I feel so bad... I just know better. I play the Emotional Shock Absorber, and it is all gone.
